ACCESS TO THE PROFESSIONS
WITH REACH SCOTLAND

Access to the Professions is a project run by the University of Edinburgh in conjunction with Reach Scotland. We work with eligible S4-S6 pupils in schools across Edinburgh, the Lothians, Forth Valley and Scottish Borders who are interested in pursuing a career in the high demand subject areas of:

Law | Medicine | Vet Medicine

We provide information, advice and guidance on applying to these subject areas and also run a number of events such as:

- Subject taster sessions
- UKCAT and interview workshops
- UCAS and Personal Statement workshops

To sign up or for more information, search for Reach on the University of Edinburgh's website

The screenshot shows the website's header with a logo of a stethoscope and hands, and the text 'YOU CAN BE A DOCTOR'. A navigation menu includes 'Home', 'Events', 'Where you can study', 'We became doctors', 'How to become a doctor', and 'About us'. The main content area is titled 'We became doctors' and contains a paragraph: 'Profiles of people who are at medical school or have become doctors. If you went to state school and are now a medic why not make a profile?'. Below this are three circular profile pictures of men.

The screenshot shows a page titled 'Being a doctor'. The navigation menu is the same as the previous screenshot. The main content area has a blue header with the title 'Being a doctor'. Below the title is a paragraph: 'It's important that you have some idea what you're letting yourself in for when you apply to medicine. You shouldn't worry too much about individual specialities though. Some people come into medical school with a very clear idea of what they want to do at the end but many more leave medical school not really knowing. So what you want to get is an idea of what doctors do generally and an idea of how things like general practice differ from hospital medicine. You'll find out a lot about that during your career exploration and by talking to doctors and medical students and you can watch our profiles. NHS Education for Scotland have some excellent videos about being a doctor in Scotland.' Below the text is a video player showing a woman's face in the foreground and a scenic landscape in the background. The video title is 'What's it like training and working as a rural GP in Scotland'.
